LIGHT RAIL FOR SYDNEY'S OLYMPIC CORRIDOR

About The WestLine Partnership

The WestLine Partnership was established in late 2014 with the aim of helping fast-track the delivery of a light rail route along Sydney's Olympic Corridor – connecting one of the city's fastest growing areas between Westmead and Strathfield.

The Partnership group, which comprises some of Sydney's leaders in business, government, sport and property, believes that this 'missing link' will not only improve accessibility along the Olympic Corridor, but importantly, support and drive future employment and residential growth.

The WestLine Partnership has commissioned Deloitte and leading urban planner, Rod Simpson to investigate the opportunities and issues of a light rail network along the Olympic Corridor. Their work, and findings, aim to deliver transport solutions that will help inform debate and deliver on Sydney's potential as a leading global city.
